

National Council of University Research Administrators (NCURA) partners with Enago to offer Manuscript Preparation and Author Education Services

Date: 20th March 2017

NCURA today announced its new partnership with Enago, a leading author service provider that specifically caters to the large section of the global research community for whom English is a second language (ESL). Founded in 1959, NCURA is the leading professional association for university research administrators. NCURA serves its members and advances the field of research administration through education and professional development programs, the sharing of knowledge and experience, and by fostering a professional, collegial, and respected community. Enago is the trusted name in author services for the global research community. Since 2005, Enago has worked with 100,000+ researchers in 125+ countries in improving the communication of their research and helping them to achieve success in international publication. Enago is the preferred partner for leading academic publishers, societies, and universities worldwide. Enago has offices in Tokyo, Seoul, Beijing, Shanghai, Istanbul, and New York, and operates globally with regional teams supporting researchers locally.

"NCURA's members include the world's top research institutions, and as such, their faculty and researchers are increasingly a part of global research consortia. For this reason, it is important for us to continue to offer additional services to our members and their faculty partnering with Enago," commented Jesse Szeto, Global Operations Director, NCURA. "We recognize the importance of publishing cutting-edge research results from across the globe, and we are pleased that this partnership will increase our support for the research community."

"Enago is delighted to be collaborating with a forward-thinking organization like NCURA to improve universities' research output." said Rajiv Shirke, VP Global Operations, Enago. "Having easy access to the manuscript preparation services provided by Enago will not only accelerate the process of publishing high-impact research but also ensure that specific author needs are taken care of during the editorial process."
