REPORT ON RESEARCH COMPLIANCE

ORDER YOUR COPIES TODAY! Regulators will focus more attention than ever on the diverse group of federal rules that fall under the umbrella of “research compliance.” This collection of rapidly changing government requirements – Can torpedo the reputation of even the most prestigious U.S. universities, Ranges widely from internal business issues (e.g., effort reporting) to grave matters of international security (e.g., select agents missing from your lab), Can have a very sudden impact on your funding and financial well-being, Is the focus of complex rules and penalties from a dozen federal agencies, Is under constant review on Capitol Hill, where political volleyballs like the Patriot Act now have a direct impact on colleges, universities and teaching hospitals.

To help research administrators manage these complicated issues and do their jobs more effectively, NCURA and AIS are offering Report on Research Compliance, a unique three-part service. Full Year Subscription Includes: Weekly e-mail newsletters, Unlimited Web site access, Monthly 12-page print newsletters.

SPONSORED RESEARCH ADMINISTRATION: A GUIDE TO EFFECTIVE STRATEGIES AND RECOMMENDED PRACTICES

Scores of important questions arise in the day-to-day world of sponsored research. Now, there's one authoritative guide that provides practical answers to questions about managing sponsored programs. Published by NCURA and Atlantic Information Services, Inc., SPONSORED RESEARCH ADMINISTRATION: A Guide to Effective Strategies and Recommended Practices will provide college and university research administrators — and others involved in sponsored programs on campus — with a “living textbook” on the wide range of research management challenges they face each day. It features principles and practices, sample policies and procedures, effective strategies to pursue, critical success factors, and pitfalls to avoid.

Sponsored Research Administration is written by more than 20 of the top sponsored research administrators in the U.S., chosen for their unique expertise in the subject areas covered (see Table of Contents for individual authors) and overseen by Editorial Director Richard P. Seligman, Ed.D., who is responsible for identifying topics for chapters, outlining content, selecting authors and managing the work of the project's Editorial Advisory Panel, including:

REGULATION AND COMPLIANCE: 2011

FEATURING MORE THAN A DOZEN NEW AND REVISED SECTIONS!

Written For

- ✓ Sponsored Program Directors and Managers
- ✓ Business Officers
- ✓ Departmental Administrators Researchers
- ✓ Pre- and Post-Award Officers

The job of sponsored programs managers brings them into regular contact with citations to federal requirements their colleges or universities must comply with, or face potentially dire consequences. Some are well known (e.g., OMB Circular A-21 or OSHA), others are new (e.g., the Federal Funding Accountability and Transparency Act), and many are arcane (e.g., the Anti-Kickback Act of 1986).

These wildly diverse requirements have two things in common: (1) failure to comply can be costly for colleges and universities, and (2) they are summarized in Regulation and Compliance: 2011 ... so sponsored programs managers have one reliable reference book at their fingertips, whenever they need it.

GUIDE TO MANAGING FEDERAL GRANTS

This comprehensive resource is now available as a searchable web-based tool!

Annual Subscription Includes:

- ✓ Looseleaf volume and/or searchable CD
- ✓ Quarterly updates (print and/or CD)
- ✓ Monthly print newsletters

Managing sponsored programs effectively has never been more challenging...and with today's tight budgets it has never been more important. The challenges you face on campus now are technological, administrative, and regulatory. The pace of change from Washington — new regs, new policies, new interpretations of existing policies, changes to circulars, mandatory education programs... not to mention the government's and agencies' move towards the electronic grant process — is accelerating at a dizzying rate.

To help your college or university limit its exposure to disallowed costs, loss of federal funding, and public relations nightmares, NACUBO, NCURA, and AIS have teamed up to publish A Guide to Managing Federal Grants for Colleges and Universities.

This comprehensive 900+ page looseleaf (also available on CD) helps you manage federal funds effectively and saves you time and money while you're at it. Among its many benefits, the Guide:

- Includes coverage of the latest federal policies and requirements.
- Is written especially for higher education by campus-based leaders in sponsored research administration.
- Has useful tips to make sure your management practices don't raise flags during an audit.
- Teaches you how to manage your intellectual property to your advantage.
- Has useful tips to make sure your management practices don't raise flags during an audit.
- Provides step-by-step guidance on managing your subrecipients.
- Guides you to an effective institutional compliance plan, including responsible conduct of research.
- Puts the full text of important OMB circulars and related documents at your fingertips, including revisions as they become final.
- Has a logical organization that walks you through the entire grant process, from solicitation to audit.
- Is updated quarterly (in print and CD formats) to ensure the information you rely on is up to date.
- Includes a monthly newsletter, Federal Grants News, written by experienced sponsored program directors.

A Guide to Managing Federal Grants for Colleges and Universities and Federal Grants News provide the help you need to maximize your institution's federal funding!
