THE CATHERINE CORE MINORITY TRAVEL AWARD

Who is Catherine Core?

For many years, Catherine was an active and respected member of NCURA. She recognized that financial considerations frequently prevent minority research administrators from taking full advantage of the benefits of NCURA membership. Through her leadership, NCURA developed our minority travel award program. In 1998, the program was named to honor Catherine as the woman most responsible for its implementation.

The Award

This program supports travel to the NCURA annual meeting in Washington, D.C., for up to four individuals from underrepresented groups who would not otherwise be able to attend this conference. The awardees receive up to $1,500 toward travel-related expenses (airfare, ground transportation, airport parking, lodging, meals not included in the meeting registration) associated with attending the Annual Meeting. Each awardee's institution/organization is responsible for the Annual Meeting registration fee.

Eligible candidate must:

- Be engaged in the administration of sponsored programs for a minimum of one year;
- Represent one of the following minority classifications (African American, Hispanic, American Indian or Alaskan native, Asian or Pacific Islander);
- Never have attended an NCURA annual meeting;
- Agree to stay at the host hotel for the duration of the meeting; and
- Agree to submit a report on his/her annual meeting experience within thirty (30) days of the end of the meeting.

The Application Process

Applicants must provide a brief statement (no more than one page) describing what they hope to gain by attending the annual meeting. Applications also must include a letter of support from an official at their home institution describing the benefits to the applicant and the institution and why this trip would not otherwise be feasible.

Note the application and supplemental information will be used in the selection process.

The deadline for application packets, including all supplemental information, is May 28, 2010. Incomplete application packets will not be eligible for review. Please send the application form and all supporting materials electronically to catherinecore2010@ncura.edu.
